CreatAbility Director

Janet Bednarczyk received wholehearted support from the OCAC Board to launch a pilot project called "Art for People with Special Abilities". The one-day workshop in August introduced several adults in assisted living to a variety of artistic media so they could explore their creative talents.

Several volunteers with experience in visual media provided guidance. The Board will consider a proposal for more workshops in the fall, with the possibility of including other media such as dance, theatre and music.

Fall Art Show & Sale Gaze, vote, nibble, sip, chat, and enjoy! Join us Saturday September 30 from 3 – 9 p.m. (public admission) and Sunday October 1 from 12 noon to 5 p.m. (Festival of the Grape admission) at the Oliver Community Centre. THE place to be! Volunteers needed: greeters, ballot counters, display set up and tear down. Still accepting entries too – but hurry! Contact OliverCAC@gmail.com or 250-498-0183 to participate.

All Hot Air A new gas line was trenched at the Quail's Nest Arts Centre this summer, from the Studio to the Big Blue Building. Gas heaters will be installed in Big Blue later this fall, keeping thespians warm this winter!

Summer of Music Music in the Park wound up an ambitious summer: an "all bands" concert series. Despite the increase in musician fees, the series landed securely in the black with a modest profit of nearly $600, helped greatly by the RCAF Band performing free of charge. We hope they return!
